The RoyalUp Program: Bidding for a Better Cabin 📈

How Does RoyalUp Work?

After you've booked your cruise, you may receive an email invitation to bid on a Room Upgrade in Princess Cruise . Insider Tips for a Successful Room Upgrade in Princess Cruise 🎯

- Bid Strategically: Bidding a little above the minimum can sometimes be as effective as a maximum bid. However, check the maximum bid against the actual booking price to ensure you're getting a deal .
- Timing Matters: Cruises during off-peak seasons (like January-March or early fall) often have more unsold inventory, increasing your chances for a Room Upgrade in Princess Cruise .
- Watch for Price Drops: Track prices regularly. If the price of a balcony drops below what you paid for your interior, you can call to request a Room Upgrade in Princess Cruise by paying the difference .
- Know What You're Getting: Remember that if you win a RoyalUp bid, you usually forfeit Crown & Anchor points for the upgraded category and might end up in a location you don't prefer (e.g., near a noisy elevator or with an obstructed view) .
